II.-Presentation

The subject Second Foreign Language German II will lead students to level A2.1 of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. The German language, spoken by almost a hundred million European people, is the most used foreign language in Europe. The importance of the German market to Spanish tourism destinations and the presence in our country of nearly a thousand five-hundred enterprises with German capital are sufficient cause for studying this foreign language in the Degree in Tourism, as well as any of the Double Degrees that include the Degree in Tourism, such as Business Administration + Tourism, etc. Furthermore, the free mobility of skilled professionals within the European Union is a matter of great relevance that requires our students to learn and have an excellent command of two or more foreign languages, in order to easily manage situations in international environments and to compete in the work market.

The subject Second Foreign Language German II forms the sound basis acquired in German I and prepares students for level A2. They also get some knowledge about basic cultural aspects of German language countries – Germany, Austria, Switzerland. German Language subjects at all levels are organized so that personal endeavour, dedication, perseverance and studying habits of students will be important to master basic competencies: reading comprehension, listening comprehension, oral and interacting production, and written communication.

It is very important for students of Tourism to foster and intensify communication skills because this will be the natural setting for people working in the tourism sector.

The student must invest time and effort by studying German Language from the first day of class, he/she has to be constant in his/her regular learning routine. Progress will be reflected in a continuous assessment where it is necessary that students attend classes regularly.

Every teacher will establish the activities and complementary materials he/she considers relevant for the students' progress. To this end, and attending to his/her criterion and to the academic liberty of teaching, there will be recommended different readings (see list of readings in the additional bibliography section of this teaching guide) or their summaries, films, visits to exhibitions, attendance to seminars and preparing presentations of tourist destinations in Germany, Austria or Switzerland, such as about sustainable tourism, issuing markets, etc. At the beginning of the school year, within the Virtual Campus, students will also find several communicative situations about the tourist sector, etc, focused to prepare the oral examinations students ought to do in addition to their written exams.

Note: the course is conducted, obviously, in German. Unfortunately, program's development doesn't allow to put the word „german“ at the box of „language of instruction“

VII.-Assessment methods

The general assessment method is continuous as established in the Regulation for the Assessment of Learning Outcomes of Rey Juan Carlos University.

All the assessment systems established in the degree report must be employed, except for those that have a minimum weight of 0%, which can be used by professors in the academic years they consider relevant. Each assessment system may be applied through one or more assessment activities, consistent with the system. No assessment activity can exceed individually 60% of the overall grade for the subject.

The sum of non re-evaluable activities cannot exceed 40% of the overall grade for the subject and, in general, should not have an established minimum grade (except for practical activities in which, strictly speaking, the conditions of the ordinary call cannot be reproduced in the extraordinary call).

Those students who do not manage to pass the subject in the ordinary call, or do not attend this first call, may attend the extraordinary call only for failed re-evaluable assessment activities.

The distribution and characteristics of the assessment activities are described below.

VII.A.-Description and weight of the assessment activities

Other observations Advanced call (convocatoria adelantada): In the advanced call the assessment method will include adaptations with respect to that of the ordinary call, which will respect the same level of demand. Students who have been granted Academic Exemption will be exempted from assisting to class, but NOT from taking the exams on continuous evaluation. If these students do not take these exams throughout the course, they will be subject to the extraordinary call as stated above. Subject with the possibility of Academic Exemption: Yes
VII.B. Assessment of students with academic exemption from class attendance
Having Academic Exemption from Class Attendance (DAAC) does not imply that students are automatically exempt from participating in the continuous assessment activities or in the training activities of compulsory attendance as established in the teaching guide. Once the exemption has been granted, students must contact the subject's teaching staff, who will propose the adaptations he/she may consider relevant, as long as they guarantee the acquisition and adequate assessment of the learning goals established. Students must maintain adequate communication with the teaching staff so that they may provide information on the dates for training and assessment activities, if these are not established in the programme and available for students at the time of achieving the exemption. Subject with possibility of academic exemption: Yes.
VII.C. Review of assessment activities

In accordance with the Regulation for the Assessment of Learning Outcomes of Rey Juan Carlos University.

VII.D.-Students with a disability or special educational needs

These adaptations will be provided by the Unit of Attention to People with Disabilities of Rey Juan Carlos University, in accordance with the regulation which regulates the service for the Attention of People with Disabilities at the University. This Unit will issue a report for curricular adaptations, so that students with disabilities or special education needs must contact the service (at e-mail discapacidad.programa@urjc.es) in order to provide relevant information for different educational alternatives.

VII.E.-Academic behaviour, academic integrity and honesty
